

The United States Distance Learning Association defines distance learning as:

"The acquisition of knowledge and skills through mediated information and instruction, encompassing all technologies and other forms of learning at a Distance."